Conclusion

I have learned how to build a website using Lovable, an AI-powered tool that turns my ideas and prompts into a working site without needing to write all the code myself. I also learned how to make my own AI chatbot, which can read a document such as a PDF and answer questions about it, summarize it, explain topics, quiz me, and compare concepts.

Along the way, I tested how the chatbot handles questions that are not in the document and questions that are unrelated to it. Overall, I now understand how to combine a website and an AI chatbot to create a useful project of my own.
